

Footnotes

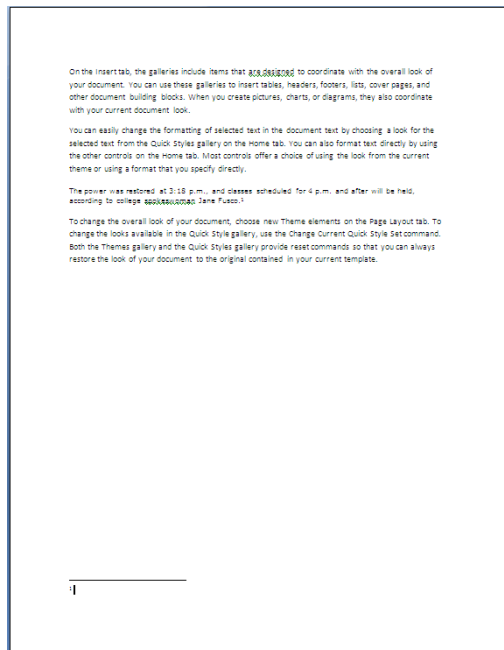

By Dick Evans

Footnotes are not the same as footers. A footnote is a reference to something placed somewhere in the page above. It appears at the bottom of the page just above the footer area. If new material is placed in a page causing the referenced material to move to another page, the footnote automatically follows.

A footnote should be used whenever something is taken from another source—not your own. This might be quoted material directly taken or just ideas you picked up from someone else’s work. When you use material from the Web, reference the material and the provide a direct link to the URL where the material was taken from.

1. Reference > Footnotes > Insert Footnote

2. Paste information about the article and the URL in the footnote area

Power back on at RIC, after 2 days
http://www.beloblog.com/ProJo_Blogs/newsblog/archives/2007/07/update_power_ba.html